“ Nathan Smith lit a candle in memory of Anna Jewell Smith

“ When I was little it was you grandma, that taught me about God's love for all things and how to pray, to pray for everybody I loved, and to pray about whatever I thought would make the world a better place... Well,.. I just wanted you to know that I prayed about you in those very same prayers. I really thought you were my super hero, and to be honest there must be some of that kid left in me because even at 33 years old I truly believe in my heart that I would never have to say goodbye to you, because of that reason. So, here's to every single memory I have, that involves you, in any way, grandma. I will end this with a hello, because I hate goodbye. It's not very fitting for a Smith anyways. What I'm trying to say is that I love you always and forever, and I'm so grateful that you gave me hope when I thought there was none. It proved me wrong when I needed it to. You also taught me that with fear you cannot have any room for faith and that if you have full faith there will be no fear in your life. I have been truly blessed by God, through you, and no matter what happens in my life, I know you'll still be right there. You always were. I'll be on my way now, but I have to make good on my word so, grandma, hello".

Love,
Nathan Janes Smith
